Local Company Wins National Award

Leading North East Roofing Contractor, Fowler McKenzie Limited has been named 'Contractor of the Year 2006' by Corus Building Systems. The national award is a prestigious accolade for a small regional player whose customers have confirmed they 'value the difference' offered by Fowler McKenzie.

Kal-Zip, manufactured by Corus Building Systems, is perceived as the No 1 roofing system in the industry, with a network of 69 highly trained, approved installers throughout the UK. The stimulus for instigating the awards was to formally recognise and promote demonstrable excellence. The awards are decided by using a combination of feedback critiques from architects and main contractors who have worked on recent Kal-Zip projects and internal scoring from Kal-Zip departments.

Managing Director, Les Fowler comments "This is a very prestigious award, totally unexpected, and to win it against such stiff competition is both rewarding and encouraging. This award confirms the commitment to quality workmanship, professionalism and customer satisfaction in all departments of our business."
